The 2010 Youth in Transition Conference is an opportunity for youth with disabilities, their families and professionals to gain more understanding of the wide array of opportunities and services available to them in Montana. This venue consists of a Real Life Fair, which will allow participants the opportunity to meet with and discover services and resources that will strengthen their plans for transition from high school, as well as learning sessions/workshops presenting available services and community networks.

We are looking for Real Life Fair vendors and workshop presenters to represent one or more of the following training areas:

Education/training

Independent living

Recreation

Employment
